OPERATORS DEMAND MINERS GO TO WORK BEFORE DISCUSSION

OF WAGE MATTERS COULD BE TAKEN UP—DECISION MADE
AT TODAY'S MEETING

(By United Press)

Chicago, Ill., July 30—Illinois coal operators today joined Indiana producers in demanding that union officials force resumption of work in the bituminous fields before wage matters could be discussed.

Representatives of all Illinois fields in session here, preliminary to a meeting of the wage scale committee of the central competitive field called by Thomas Brewster, chairman, decided this course today. Telegrams demanding that the unions "live up to their contracts," were to be sent to John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers at Indianapolis, and Frank Farrington, Illinois district president.

Brewster arrived here shortly before noon today. He expects to meet with other members of the wage committee later today, to frame an answer to Lewis' request for a joint session to make a proposal to end the unauthorized strike in Indiana and Illinois fields.

In view of Illinois and Indiana operators' action the committee was expected to refuse the invitation and put the difficulty squarely up to President Wilson and union officials.

Lewis and other national union officials have "blanketed authority to take any action necessary to protect the interests of the organization during the present emergency," United Mine Workers headquarters announced today.

FORMER KAISER AND WIFE FEEL STRAIN OF TROUBLE

(By United Press)

Berlin, July 30—Both former Kaiser Wilhelm and his wife feel the strain of exile and family troubles and members of the royal family say they doubt if either will live long. The kaiser, they said, is very delicate and has to be carried to the garden when she wants a breath of fresh air. She took the news of Prince Joachim's suicide reasonably well.

20 MILLION TONS OF COAL ORDERED FOR NORTHWEST

FOUR THOUSAND CARS CARRYING FIFTEEN TONS DAILY TO BE MOVED

(By United Press)

Washington, July 30—The interstate commerce commission today sent out instructions for the movement of coal to the northwest region. The total estimate of the northwest shipment is approximately 20,000,000 tons. The commission instructed that four thousand cars for one hundred days, each carrying fifteen tons be moved daily to the northwest territory.

Minneapolis, July 30—The problem of supplying bituminous coal for districts of the northwest is serious, the ninth federal reserve bank statement said today.

While ninety-two per cent of the coal supply of anthracite coal has been delivered at the head of the lakes, only twenty-nine per cent of the coal supply of bituminous coal has been received. As a result industries will face a possible shutdown, the statement said. The northwest is more dependent than ever upon the ability of lake transportation to deliver coal because of the railroad transportation difficulty, the statement said.

INTERNAL REVENUE HITS HIGHEST MARK

1920 COLLECTION OVERTOPS ALL
OTHERS—MINNESOTA DIST.
FOURTH IN MIDDLE WEST

Washington, July 30—Internal revenue taxes amounting to $5,410,284,874 were collected during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1920, according to a compilation made by the bureau from field reports just received. This total exceeds by $1,560,134,796 the collection for 1919 and is the greatest annual tax collection made by the bureau since its establishment in 1862. The cost of collection, it is stated, will approximate 55 cents on each $100.

Tax collections of districts in the middle west follow:

Illinois (Chicago) ...	$286,693,270
Illinois 25,598,260
Indiana 49,691,162
Iowa 30,325,441
First Michigan 176,903,568
Fourth Michigan 19,103,179
Minnesota 53,406,118
Wisconsin 69,561,696

Revenues received from income and excess profits taxes amounted this year to a total of $3,944,555,737, an increase of $1,434,716,815 over last year, and from miscellaneous taxes, $1,465,729,136.

Hennepin county furnished $19,000,000, or approximately one-fourth of the record breaking federal tax total of $76,997,401 paid the government by Minnesotans during the fiscal year ending June 30, according to a statement from Washington that reached Minneapolis recently. With Ramsey and St. Louis counties, Hennepin county paid nearly 60 per cent of the total. Ramsey paying about one-half as much as Hennepin, the report showed.

The 1919-1920 figure exceeds by nearly $7,000,000 the largest previous payment of federal taxes from Minnesota. In 1917 $70,00,000 was paid, the assessment having leaped to that figure from $3,225,000 in 1912.

Total federal taxes collected during the fiscal year just closed amounted to $5,410,284,874, of which New York, the largest source, paid $1,416,939,276. North and South Dakota combined in a single district, yielded $9,541,683.

WHITE BEAR INDIAN "COUNTERFEIT" MONEY

(By United Press)

Minneapolis, July 30—John Bear, of White Earth Indian reservation, came to town to see the sights on $300. A "detective" asked to see his money, pronounced it counterfeit and took it to the "police station."

FINANCIAL OUTLOOK OF N. W. IS EXCELLENT

(By United Press)

Minneapolis, July 30—The financial outlook for the northwest is excellent.

This is the general trend of the monthly report of the ninth federal reserve bank of Minneapolis made public today.

The report states that banner crops are ready for harvesting, the freight car situation is gradually clearing up, range conditions are better than for many years. Normal supply of coal is on the way and prices of important commodities are on the decline.

CONSCIENTIOUS OB- JECTOR RELEASED

Chicago, July 30—Brent Dow Allison, former diplomatic clerk at the American legation in Berne, Switzerland, was expected here today after two and a half years in the federal prison at Fort Leavenworth.

Allison gained notoriety in 1918 when in a letter to Secretary of War Baker, he declared against conscription. He was then with the American legation at Berne. He was recalled and sentenced to fifteen years. The release of Allison was in accordance with the war department's policies to release conscientious objectors "as soon as their own conduct makes their release possible."

Allison was freed yesterday and will arrive here today, it was understood.

WANT OF RECORD PROVES COSTLY

Ice Cream Dealers of St. Cloud Run Afoul of the Revenue Laws and Assessed Heavily

1 KEPT AN ACCURATE RECORD

Drive Started in Brainerd by Revenue Officers Checking Up Sales of Local Dealers

A flying squadron of four revenue officers is checking up wholesale and retail sales of ice cream, etc., in Brainerd. The results achieved by the deputy revenue collectors in St. Cloud is of interest to Brainerd, showing that only one St. Cloud dealer kept an accurate record.

The St. Cloud Daily Journal Press gives this account of the survey made by the officers:

Failure to keep complete records of all ice cream sales by St. Cloud ice cream dealers and soda fountain proprietors has cost the dealers over $6000 in back revenue assessed by federal auditors covering the period since May 1, 1919 when the federal tax on ice cream and soft drinks went into effect.

The federal revenue officers state that there has been no intention on the part of local dealers to defraud the government, but that they have merely failed to take due cognizance of all the features of the law. Only one dealer, B. F. Carter, has kept complete and accurate records and made full returns as required under the law. The records of all the other dealers were found faulty in some particular or other by the revenue officers, and the back revenue was assessed on basis of 50¢ per gallon for every gallon of ice cream purchased by those who records were not satisfactory to the federal officers. The records of the Corner Cigar store checked with their purchases, tho they were not kept complete. No back revenue was assessed against the proprietors.

The dealers affected claim that this assessment is most unfair to them, inasmuch as a considerable portion of their ice cream sales are made in bulk, that is, pints, quarts and gallons bought and taken from the shop, and on these sales there is no tax. The federal officers have allowed an arbitrary percentage of 25 per cent to cover bulk sales, but this does not cover the bulk sales actually made, the dealers state.

The law requires the dealers to keep a record of all ice cream purchases and of all sales, whether taxable or not. All the dealers but Carter have kept a record only of taxable sales, and in this manner have run foul of the law to their serious financial loss.

The two dealers who were hit the heaviest are the Imperial Candy store and Beckers, each of whom were assessed over a thousand dollars above what their own records show were taxable sales. Some of the small dealers in the outlying parts of the city, while not assessed as large amounts, paid even a larger proportion because of their larger volume of bulk non-taxable sales which were taxed nevertheless because of their inability to prove by their books that the sales were non-taxable.

In Canton she started out on a trip to the Chinese section, borne by four coolies. NEAT STAND FOR FANCYWORK

Old Washboard May Be Easily Converted Into an Attractive and Useful Receptacle.

What girl does not like a room that is brightened by a bit of cretonne? What girl would not like a place to keep sewing materials and bits of fancywork where they are out of the way and easy to reach when one has an inspiration to sew? A normal girl likes both of these things, and the great number of normal girls in the world will be glad of an opportunity to learn how to make that bit of furniture which is so useful and colorful.

This stand is made out of a washboard. An old washboard will do. A cretonne work pocket is tacked along the front and sides of the board. A slight frame of wood should be made to keep the cretonne away from the board at the top, so that a good-sized pocket is formed. The cretonne, of course, is tacked fast to the bottom of the board.

Before the cretonne is tacked into place the zinc should be covered with a piece of cloth to form a pocket lining. The recess at the top of the board which holds the soap is utilized to hold scissors and thread. Nails should be driven into the bar across the bottom of this recess to form spindles for the spoons. Two pieces of tape at the back of the board will hold the scissors.

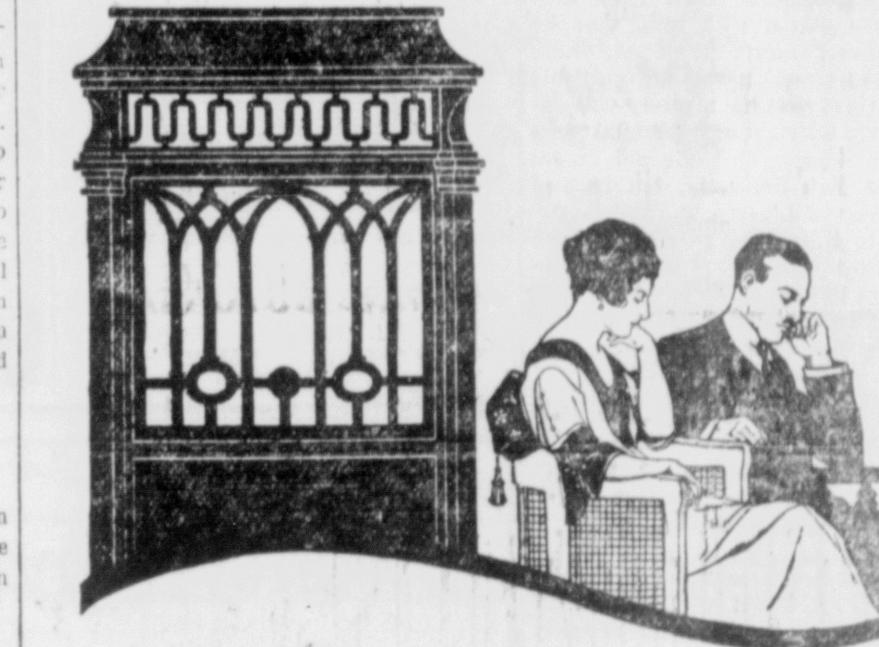

The stand is supported like an easel by screwing a pair of uprights to the sides of the washboard. These uprights are held together near the lower ends by means of a horizontal strip.

Next the woodwork of the stand should be painted to harmonize with the woodwork in the room.

Come into our store and ask for Mr. Edison's REALISM TEST

IT reveals to you the Supreme Realism of the New Edison, the phonograph with which Mr. Edison has challenged the talking-machine manufacturers of the world.

It shows you the charm of music's imagery. It transports you to the far-away. It makes you lose consciousness of your surroundings.

This Fascinating Test

enables you to determine, in an interesting and scientific way, whether the Realism of the New Edison gives you the same emotions as the living singer's voice—as the sound of the actual instrument—or as the performance of great bands and orchestras.

Noted Psychologists

endorse this entertaining experiment as the correct way to ascertain the New Edison's Realism.

You, too, may enjoy this experiment. We invite you to try it.

It will answer, once and for all, your questions, "Can I have the voices of living singers at my beck and call, in my own home? Can I have the great orchestras and bands of the world exactly as they sound?"

FOLSOM MUSIC COMPANY

A summer scarf of two different pelts, one of snow white carabou and the other red-pointed fox, is an expensive novelty.

A brown handkerchief linen apron tied over brown gingham is a combination that works out beautifully for a youthful gown.

Plumeline, a material of silk and cotton mixture, is shown in delicate colors for pretty and serviceable underwear, combined with satin for tops.

White linen is one of the fabrics essential for the summer girl's wardrobe this year. To wear with a frock of this kind is a cute little yellow linen coat, trimmed with brown braid.

The ringless hand is the fashion, but there is no limit to the variety and number of bracelets that are worn piled on the arms, some as wide as three inches and circled with brilliant.

Narrow panels turned under at the bottom and trimmed with lovely Valenciennes lace form the trimming of a white net graduation frock that has an air of smartness as well as summery beauty.

Feather Fans for Autumn.

Ostrich feather fans for autumn is the word in accessories. The folding fan seems to be the one most in demand. These are made with three, four or five sticks that are extremely interesting and beautiful, being studded with semi-precious stones.

Filet Lace Reaches Zenith.

It is said that filet lace has reached the zenith of its popularity and that the vogue of Irish crochet and very wide silk lace is coming into first place, particularly for blouses.

OBLONG PARASOL 1920 MODEL

Transparent, Gayly Colored Things, Wet and Glistening, Are Attraction Arresting.

The dreariness of a rainy day may be utterly defied if one is fortified by a bright colored oiled silk umbrella. Although we have become accustomed to protecting ourselves from the downpour by umbrellas of bright silks, these transparent, gayly colored things, all wet and glistening with rain, are attraction arresting. They come in colors as brilliant as the rainbow's hues. The transparent effect is carried out even in the tins and the handles, which are of bakelite.

The oblong parasol is the parasol of 1920. So say its makers. But it is impossible to predict the extent of its success. There is no reason why we should not carry oblong parasols. They certainly have many advantages over the round ones. There are fewer angles to interfere with your own or other people's bats on a crowded promenade. Then one can set them on the beach with the certainty that they will not roll away under the impetus of the slightest breeze. When closed they give a petal effect.

Sloping Shoulders. Sloping shoulders are again to be seen in the new-gowns.

FOUNDATION OF THE WORLD

One would hardly expect to find an editorial on the Christian religion in an automobile journal but the following from the Chicago Automobile Club Journal is most enlightening:

"The Christian religion is the foundation of the world. Without it life would be unutterable."

The gospel of Jesus Christ by which we know who our fathers and mothers are—which has regenerated the world from awful darkness so that we, reading history through the dreadful ages past, view with horror what have been our present lot but for the Christian faith—requires the most vigorous energy and the biggest and most perfect organizations, to proselytize and maintain.

We advance this one argument alone to show the natural tendency of man to go to sleep even in peril of a world of damnation, to say nothing of what might be beyond! Of all lecturing, coaxing, preaching, ascetic devotion and self-sacrifice, this one thing alone beats anything in the world—just to awaken man to that which is of the utmost importance to him!"

DISHES NOT ALL SHE'D DO

School Teacher Made Her Position Quite Plain to the Man of Her Choice.

She is a schoolteacher, who is anxious to marry, and he is a bawful restaurant owner. For three years she has dined at his restaurant and at some time during every meal he has come to her table to talk to her. But he never suggested any sort of engagement. Yet from the expression in his eyes and his general demeanor she has long been sure that he cares for her. "All he needs is just a little help," her best friend told her the other day.

A few days afterward when she was in the restaurant he came to her table as usual. "I see you'll soon be out of a job," he laughed, and added: "Since your school is going to close Friday you might answer that?" and he pointed to a sign on his wall reading "Dishwasher wanted." "Would you wash dishes for me?" he continued.

Back came the reply: "Yes, and cook and sweep and keep house in every way."

He took the hint. Also she is going to quit teaching for all time.—Indianapolis News.

UNCLE SAM AFTER SOFT DRINK TAX

Inherits Fortune but Keeps on Former Job as Farm Hand

EVASION HAS BEEN GENERAL

Internal Revenue Bureau No Longer Will Be Lenient With Venders Who Do Not Comply With the Federal Statute.

By JAMES P. HORNADAY.

Washington.—The internal revenue bureau, collector of all the federal taxes, is making ready for a drive that Commissioner William M. Williams expects will bring millions of dollars into the treasury. The soft-drink business has grown enormously since the beginning of nation-wide prohibition, and the collection of a cent or two from each soda water, pop, ice cream sundae, etc., is giving the revenue officials grave concern.

Neglect or wilful evasion of the law on the part of the soft-drink venders is so general that special preparations are being made by Commissioner Williams to force obedience of the revenue statute. Special deputies, gathered from all parts of the country, are going through a special school in order that the bureau can make sure of the enforcement of the law. These agents will soon be sent into the states to organize special forces to ferret out offenders, large and small, and press the prosecutions in the federal courts.

To get ready for the drive against the venders failing to comply with the law, Commissioner Williams called to Washington a corps of revenue agents, and they are studying a special course of instruction on the provisions of the law and the proper way to obtain evidence against violators.

Flying Squadron Trained.

These agents are about ready to return to their states, where each will pass along the knowledge he has acquired at the school here, and from the persons enrolled in the local schools there will be organized flying squadrons to descend upon refreshment booths, drug stores and the other places from which the government collects 10 per cent on each sale of soft drink.

No rigid enforcement of the law has been required in the past, the government officials winking, possibly, at violations because of the fact that many venders were not familiar with the law and might violate its provisions innocently. But with the beginning of the new fiscal year in July, Mr. Williams has felt that the time has come to press for a more general compliance with the revenue statute regarding the soft drinks.

Under the law the tax must be paid by the consumer, and the seller gets into trouble not because of failure to pay the tax but for failure to collect it from a buyer. A maximum penalty of $10,000 fine and imprisonment for one year is prescribed for the wilful evasion of the law. Venders also are required to keep daily record sheets showing the number of sales and the amount of tax collected on each. Where no cash register or check system is employed it is required by the revenue bureau that a separate receipt be kept to hold the collections as they are made with each sale.

During the present drive, which will be continued until every soft drink place has been visited by the federal agents, authority will be given the members of the flying squadrons to examine books, papers and all records having a bearing on tax collections. They may also examine under oath all persons having knowledge of the particular point at issue.

Severe Penalty Provided.

The dealer who collects money for taxes and does not turn it over to the government is facing a severe penalty, for such an offense is punishable under the general penal code. In such a case, the revenue bureau would not have to prove that the dealer intended to keep the money forever from its rightful owner, as its mere use by him constitutes a fraudulent appropriation.

The special drive to collect the millions and millions of missing cents from the soft drink business also is expected to be fruitful of the collection of other federal taxes. The revenue agents have been instructed to keep an open eye on retailers, especially druggists, who do not attach revenue stamps to toilet articles and preparations, and also upon medical supplies. This tax is 1 cent for each 25-cent sale, and the law specifies that the stamp must be attached and canceled by the dealer. Failure to cancel the stamp may cause a fine of $100, and wilful evasion of the law is punishable by a fine of $10,000.

There is no question that the soft drink tax has not proved popular.

More petitions for the repeal of this section of the general revenue act of 1918 were filed with congress during the last year than for similar action upon any other section. But congress did not act and the many petitions, some of which were inspired by among the mass of requests made to the ways and means committee of the house of representatives.

Twirling-Arms Dance.

Many new dances were shown at the dancing congress in Paris recently. Most of them, however, appeared to lack originality. An exception is the "Tchega," which is danced to the strains of Hindoo music. The "Tchega" would never meet with the approval of the British dancing masters, as it is most unsuitable for the English ballrooms. It consists of fantastic movements in which the arms are twirled round the head while the dancer performs short hesitation.

Inventor of Paper Money.

The first paper money was used in 1483. It was invented by a Count de Tendilla, while besieged in Alhambra, Granada. He had no gold or silver with which to pay his troops, and gave them pieces of paper on which he inscribed various sums, signing each with his own hand and name.

The soldiers were thus able to purchase necessities from the people of the town, and the count ultimately re-

GAS COMPANY ASKS TO RAISE RATES

Claim Made That a Raise is Necessary in Order to Continue Its Service to People

GEO. B. CORTELYOU QUOTED

Brainerd Gas & Electric Co. Claims to Have Stood Heavy Loss the Past 2-1/2 Years

The Brainerd Gas & Electric company desires an increase in rates, claiming the company has lost money on its Brainerd gas plant for the last three and a half years.

This statement was given the Brainerd Dispatch as the gas company side of the case:

"The emergency confronting the gas companies all over the United States is immediate and far reaching and the evidence presented by gas manufacturers, advising the public of the real conditions, is not for the purpose of obtaining excessive rates or unwarranted returns upon invested capital, is the declaration made by Mr. Geo. B. Cortelyou, President of the American Gas Association. Mr. Cortelyou in a brief statement sets forth the immediate needs of gas companies, that they may continue a service so vital to such a large percentage of the people in the United States, that the interest of the public is just as great as the interest of the manufacturer. Mr. Cortelyou's statement is as follows:

"The emergency is immediate and far reaching. It embraces the entire gas industry. Economic conditions—many of them of world-wide extent and influence—affecting the supply of coal, oil and other essential materials required in the manufacture of gas, of labor and of the funds needed to maintain and develop our properties, are not bodes invented by the industry to secure preferential treatment, excessive rates, or unwarranted returns upon the investment. They are plain facts."

"All over this land today gas companies, great and small, are rendering, often under most adverse conditions, this service so vital to the welfare and comfort of our people. What they need and should have, in the interest of the public, is the reasonable certainty of adequate rates and sufficient supply of oil, coal and other necessary supplies, and such manufacturing and operating conditions, as will utilize and conserve these material, as well as contribute to all other economies of production and distribution."

It is absolutely necessary that the gas rates in this city be increased to a sufficient sum to save the company from losing any more money on its gas plant. The company has stood this burden now for the last three and one-half years, but it will be necessary that immediate action be given."

Submitted to Council

On June 7 of this year the gas company applied to the council for a raise in rates and the application was tabled.

An increase of 90c per 1000 cubic feet over rates now in force was asked.

The application stated in part:

"When this is added to the original increase of 35c, it will mean a complete increase from the original ordinance rate of 400 per cent, which will then not be sufficient to pay operating cost of the plant and we will still be losing quite a sum," wrote President A. G. Whitney of the company. A request has also been made to increase the minimum to $1.25.

The original rate was $1.50 per 1,000 feet for illuminating gas and $1.35 per thousand for fuel gas, with a minimum charge of 50c. On June 3, 1918 an emergency surcharge of 35c per thousand cubic feet was added by order of the council. A ten per cent discount is made if payments for gas are made on or before the twentieth of the month.

"Taxes", wrote Mr. Whitney in June, "were heavy in Brainerd and a large amount of water is used from the city water plant. Two years ago a second unit was added at a cost of $10,000. It is necessary to add another boiler now. 704 customers are using gas".

The company, it may be stated, has also recently added a pump to furnish water during the many shutdowns of the city plant or sections of the city while mains are being connected in the new water system.

It is expected that the council will consider the company's application more fully at the next regular meeting on Monday evening, August 2.

TOURIST CAMP GROUND ATTRACTIVE

Three Families at the Chamber of Commerce Grounds on River Bank Near Bridge

OWATONNA PEOPLE GRATEFUL

Citizens Should Aid in Directing the Tourists to the New Grounds Recently Established

The tourists camp, established recently by the Chamber of Commerce on ground loaned by P. B. Nettleton, is proving most attractive to tourist motor parties.

The advantage of the arrangement made by the Chamber of Commerce committee on Park and Playgrounds, is attested by the fact that already quite a few tourists have made use of it, some for a short while only, others camping there for the night.

Last night when the secretary of the Chamber of Commerce went out for a little friendly call, he found three families with their tents up and preparing for the evening meal.

One of them Oscar Oxley of Owatonna, who was passing through with his family enroute for one of our lake side resorts said, "We are surely glad you people have provided such a place for us. At Owatonna we have a splendid tourist's camp site with water and stoves and shelter and quite a few comforts besides and you have no idea what a big thing it has been for our town by way of advertising it. Shall tell our folks about this and am sure you will see as we have done the advantage it will be to Brainerd."

Won't everybody take the pains to get the location well fixed in their minds (it is just back of the gas house down near the fringe of pine in the bank of the river) so that if tourists ask for direction you all can tell them just how to get to it? In that way our citizens can help the Chamber's committee very materially in the good work so lately begun but which really seems to fill a great need in the life of our tourist guests as they pass through seeking recreation at our wonderful lake region resorts.

BRAINERD'S ODDEST STORIES

It has been our luck", said the Dispatch reporter, "to receive in the winter time scores of invitations to visit summer cottages. And when the gentle summer time hove into sight you couldn't find the people who were so hospitable in the winter."

Summer finds Brainerd divided into two camps—those who glory in having a lake cottage and those who shiver in the heat of the town.

The first year I ran a car, said a Brainerd motorist, my radiator leaked and I got acquainted with every pump on the road.

The second season my tires wore out and I knew every inch of road where I patched up and pumped up.

The third season the machinery commenced to give out and I got acquainted with every garage on the route.

By the time I got full of experience I had no car left.

The city council may reject any or all bids.

Tags bearing the information, "Ask me—I live here," will be worn by all local Elks while the visiting Elks are in Duluth. It is believed that such a system will be of assistance to those who wish to see the city.

Another matter of civic interest which was discussed at last night's gathering was the plan to give a picnic soon for the boys and girls of the Children's home. A committee will be appointed immediately to make the arrangements. A boxing match by Kid Sharkey and Bill Burns selections by the Elks band and the refreshments concluded the meeting.

Goodyear Mileage—and Tires for Small Cars

A well built tire yields much more mileage for each dollar of cost than a tire purposely made to be offered at a sensational low price; buy the tire, not the price.

Built to deliver exceptional mileage at exceedingly low cost, Goodyear Tires, of the 30 x 3-, 30 x 3 1/2- and 31 x 4-inch sizes, save inconvenience, disappointment and money.

Their value results from the application of Goodyear experience, expertness and care to their manufacture in the world's largest tire factory devoted to these sizes.

If you own a Ford, Chevrolet, Dort, Maxwell or other car taking these sizes, go to your nearest Service Station for Goodyear Tires—for the real worth and endurance that Goodyear builds into them.

30 x 3 1/2 Goodyear Double-Cure Fabric, All-Weather Tread $2.350
30 x 3 1/2 Goodyear Single-Cure Fabric, Anti-Skid Tread $2.150
Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tubes cost no more than the price you are asked to pay for tubes of less merit—why risk costly casings when such sure protection is available? 30 x 3 1/2 size $4.50 in waterproof bag

By OTILLIA F. PFEIFFER

(Copyright, 1920, Western Newspaper Union.) With resignation and patience Marvin Truesdale took up the burdens of life after his wife had died. Her sickness, which had lasted for over year, had called for his constant presence and he had removed his studio to the house. There was little Violet, two years old, to care for, and practically his life was given up to the demands of the sickroom and nursery.

He was a true artist at soul, and his troubles came upon him just as he was beginning to win recognition. Before twelve months had gone by, Truesdale had practically lost his portrait clients. Somehow, soul and mind seemed going through a change that dulled all ambition. One of his severest disappointments was the discovery that he had made a mistake in marrying in haste. His wife was not a helpmeet. All she seemed to care for was frivolity and dress. She used up his income; even the coming of Little Violet did not arouse a right appreciation of maternal duties. She developed into a fretful, capricious invalid, with no thought beyond her own distress, and demanding luxuries her husband could poorly afford. When she died Truesdale had barely enough after selling nearly everything he had left of home and studio furnishings, to meet the demands of his creditors. He rented two furnished rooms in a poor quarter. The little one was a lovely child and clung to him, but she too, however, was frail of frame, and Truesdale was oppressed with a deep dread that she might have inherited the seeds of the disease which had carried her mother to an early grave.

Finally a large mail-order house specializing in enlarging photographs offered Truesdale a position in hand-coloring them. It was uncongenial, but he was given a room all to himself for his delicate work, and what meant a great deal more, an opportunity to have little Violet with him all day long. There was a little empty apartment adjoining his work room. He bought some toys with which the little one could amuse herself, a child's rocking chair and a couch, each noon provided a nourishing lunch and was glad and content as long as she was not left to indifferent care at the boarding house.

The room looked out upon a court walled in on all sides and Violet did not thrive. One day when her father had left her to carry some finished photographs to the mailing room, he returned to greet a pleasing surprise. Little Violet was seated on the couch upon the lap of a lovely faced girl of about nineteen, who was listening with a smile of interest to her artless prattle. The visitor arose, flushing with some embarrassment.

"I love children so that the voice of this little angel lured me to an intrusion," she said. "I am Miss Norine Warren. My aunt has charge of the help about the building and I live with her on the top floor."

"And she has a garden, oh, papa?" interrupted Violet. "And flowers growing way up under the sky. Can't I go up there at noontime, for she says I can?"

"Come, both of you, please," invited Miss Warren, "and get a breath of real air. The chief janitor has made my aunt quite a roof garden—why not pass your noon hour there? You will find it pleasant and good for the little one."

And that noon the gracious, kindly Miss Warren led those two to the rooms where she and her aunt lived, and thence by a narrow stairway to the roof. Wire screened in the greater portion of it. Here and there small trees were set in tubs and flowers and vines in boxes. There were several chairs, settees, tables and a hammock and an awning to shield from the afternoon sun. It came about that Miss Warren delighted in having little Violet for a guest most of the day. It came about also that Truesdale should pass several hours a week in their company.

"My father, too, was an artist," she recited. "He was at work on his last picture when he died. It was a historical subject. I was his model. It is still unfinished, but I will show it to you."

She led Truesdale to the room her father had used as a studio, left just as it was when Robert Warren last occupied it. Upon an easel was the canvas she had told about. The theme appealed to every artistic instinct in Truesdale's impressionable nature. The delineation of Norine's beautiful face thrilled him. Back amid familiar surroundings his old aspirations aroused.

"If I dared to suggest it," he said, "how my soul would delight in striving to complete a canvas that the world should not lose," and Norine was glad, even urged him to essay the task.

Out of it all came a strangely fortunate issue. The completed canvas, dead Robert Warren given the credit of its production, attracted the attention of the public when placed on exhibition, and encouraged Truesdale. He gradually felt his way back to the call of art in a practical, substantial way.

"I knew you had the genius to carry forward my father's work," spoke Norine one day.

"There was something more than that," replied Truesdale. "You were its central figure, and from the canvas always your eyes seemed to bid me aspire and hope. It was not genius that sustained me. It was love."

Art and Genius.

A work of art may be admirably constructed, and yet be null as regards every essentiality of that truest art which is but the happiest development of nature; but no work of art can embody within itself a proper originality without giving the plainest manifestations of the creative spirit, or, in more common parlance, of genius in its author.—Edgar Allan Poe.

Mrs. V. M. Katz, 502 Armondale St., N. S., Pittsburgh, Pa., writes: "I gave Foley's Honey and Tar to my little grandson when he had a bad cold and it did him lots of good. North East West South

Supposing that, beginning tomorrow, all the newspapers are discontinued. What a furore the public would make. "News! News! We must have news or we will be no better off than the ancients." "All right, suppose we give them news but cut out the advertisements."

Then we would discover that politics, the doings of society, notices of fires, accidents, deaths, scandals, sports, the activities of the police and criminals add little or nothing to the real comfort and happiness of this greatest age in the world's history.

What genii are they that have crowded the last fifty years with so much of advantage to humans? They are legion in number, but not least among them is Advertising.

Our day is the greatest time the world has seen because we have more to be happy with, better things, greater variety, greater comforts gathered together from the North, East, West and South for our choosing and selection. Look about you. This is the day of better food, better homes, better clothing, better babies, better health, better business. And advertising is the instrument that makes these better things possible.

Advertising is the NEWS of all the looms, of all the furnaces, of all the laboratories, of all the shops, of all the stores, of all the world and all working for you.

Because of advertising, luxuries and necessities that once cost a king's ransom are yours at little prices. Advertising pits merchant against merchant, artisan against artisan, producer against producer, for your benefit, forcing out the best
